Ken, Chloé, Free... East Team...
In transit to Point A.
It will be one minute until we get there.
I was expecting you to pass Point A 5 seconds before then.
Please hurry
The target is alive.
If you are even one second delayed the target will be eepparated by a distance too great to catch up to it.
Tch!
How is that thing so fast!?
Aya, Yuki, Michel... West Team!
Aya, please clearly report Michel's position or condition!

Mihirogi's PC was subjected to hacking?
So, you mean, you knew where the target and the enemy were from the beginning!?
It wasn't particularly forbidden.
We defeated the enemy properly, right!

All I said was 'the target is alive.'
You should abandon your preconceived ideas
By the way
But we didn't discover until the last minute that it was a cat so we had such a hard time chasing it
It is just that I took the shortest and best method!
Aya, Michel, Yuki!
Even though your flexible judgment is impressive you should refrain from rash actions!
Make sure you carry out situation reporting thoroughly! Sounds good?
It is just...
You need to work on your communication.
Conversely, for Ken, Chloé, and Free, the battle was perfect.

Probability just like the monkey on the shelf. But similarly intelligence like the monkey too. Or the Japanese are everyone so? When it can the time we would like to go verifying in one time Japan. Of cou your invitation

That guy is such a foreigner!
He laughed at me!
You saw that?
Calm down, because he is a foreigner.
However we will also have to make certain everyone learns Japanese as well

Scanulator's Note

The Weiß Side B Extra Story was published in Zerosum Magazine in November 2003. It was a short bonus story featuring the guys on a training mission. It was never compiled into any manga volume.

1) Chloe is speaking in German here.

2) Chloe gabbers at Ken in English which Ken can't understand... and sadly nether can I. Who ever wrote this also did not understand English very well.
I believe Chloe is saying Ken is as dumb as a monkey and asking if all Japanese are that way or if it is just Ken. It goes on to say something like when we have the time we should go to Japan on your invitation and see if everyone there is as dumb as you. Unfortunate racial slur aside, as I don't believe that is the intention here, it is still pretty insulting.

3) Ken tries to say, "I beg your pardon." But, his English really is bad and it comes out sounding halting and funny... so Chloe laughs at him.
